

video transcript

nanolaminate technology

human energy®

Nanolaminates are metal structures comprised of layers – very similar to plywood. We work with industry experts that coat equipment like pup joints used for tubulars, downhole plungers and bolts with nanolaminate alloys to limit corrosion, fatigue and wear. This technology extends the life of assets, improves reliability of operations and reduces unplanned downtime.