Nancy Harrington, Books for the Barrios

We're Books for the Barrios, and we send books and school supplies to remote and war-torn areas of the Philippines. Chevron employees volunteer their time to come to Books for the Barrios to pack books.

Don Carter, Chevron Employee

For me, personally, you know, I got where I am because somebody helped me and they gave to me. And so, I believe – I really believe strongly – in helping others.

Denice Azevedo, Chevron Employee

Well, I volunteer quite regularly. It's just something that – helping women, children and the environment is something I've been doing, and I enjoy a lot. You get to see the project get completed, and that's – that's really a reward, seeing that this person set a goal out, and they got that goal completed. It's just a great feeling to know that I've been part of that.
